An econometric model for the aquatic products consumption of urban residents:

urban residents' annual disposable income annual consumption quantity of pork and poultry (related by products family structure,
aging level,
educational background,
having meals out of home,
number of retail chains stores) on the aquatic products consumption quantity of urban residents.

The result :

urban residents' annual disposable income
having meals out of home (greatest effect) number of retail chains stores (larger) family structure (negative effect)

Conclusion:

The aquatic products consumption of Chinese residents should be further promoted and also the aquatic products market can attain a development.

■ Discussion on cod market of China

The restricting factors to promote Atlantic or Pacific cod in China:

- higher price

- characteristics of frozen products

The China codfish market can be divided into

- developed coastal market

- developing inland market

Developed coastal market

The characteristics:

- fast growing economy

- higher per capital income

- higher urbanization level

- sound supply chain system

- huge urban floating population

- fast pace of life

- main producing area of seafood (more than 86%)

The consumer pursue:

- higher quality seafood

- fast and convenient pattern

- preferring to living and iced seafood.

Salers should develop processing seafood such as cod roe jam,seasoning codfish,seasoning processing cod products and wrapping cod fillet.

Developing inland market

Competitive advantage of frozen Alaska pollock lower price

longer retention time.

The better marketing strategies for promoting Chinese codfish market are to enhance the awareness of cod fish, cultivating consumer preference, cultivating potential consumer group and building good supply chain.

Thank you !
